The Magazine of the Christian Reformed Church

In 1866, Rev. John Y. De Baun began publishing a 16-page monthly for the True Protestant Reformed Dutch Church in New Jersey. The magazine was originally called The Banner of Truth, based on Psalm 60:4—"You have given a banner to them that fear you, to be displayed because of the truth." In 1887, Rev. De Baun became the first pastor of LaGrave Avenue CRC in Grand Rapids, Mich., and brought the magazine along with him. Through changes in ownership, name, and publication schedule, not to mention editors, reporters, reviewers, and columnists, The Banner has remained faithful to being a forum and a mirror for members of the Christian Reformed Church in North America and beyond for the past 160 years.

Join us in celebrating this milestone! Get a new tidbit from The Banner's history each week, along with links to news and reviews, in the weekly Update email straight to your inbox. Sign up for that and the print edition at thebanner.org/signup. And download the app to get everything straight to your device.

The Banner is free to every household, and it is on a faith-filled journey to become fully reader supported by 2027. That means the magazine will be completely sustained by people who value trusted, thoughtful Christian journalism—like you.

We hope you value a trusted source of journalism directly serving members of the CRCNA. You can show your support by giving today at thebanner.org/give.
